Context

This support is provided under the Migrant Protection, Return, and Reintegration (MPRR) Programme funded by the European Union. The MPRR program in Sierra Leone has the overall objective to contribute to the protection of vulnerable and stranded migrants, through assisted voluntary return, and provision of sustainable reintegration assistance to returning migrants in Sierra Leone.

Methodology

There were 147 returned migrants that arrived on 21st March, 2024. A total of 113 were profiled ranging from age 14 and above, comprising 25 female and 88 male. This data collection was realized through IOM internally generated questionnaire administration on varied thematic related to returnee profiling. The profiling thematic questionnaire administration was specifically focused on migrants' educational level, pre-migration occupation, pre-migration place of residence, and migrants' preferred form of integration. In the administration of the questionnaire to each profiled migrant, consent was exclusively considered. Five enumerators trained on IOM data collection protocols participated in this data collection process, using tablets with GIS functions.
